

COERCIVE CONTROL & SOCIAL ENTRAPMENT

Addressing the Violation of Family Violence by Examining Systems of Power

An online workshop series every Wednesday morning in October

Coercive control within the context of social entrapment allows us to better assess situations of domestic and family violence risks that jeopardise the safety of women and children. The concepts of coercive control and social entrapment provide an in-depth understanding of the complex dynamics that allows perpetrators to establish and maintain control over their partner or their ex-partner. This symposium creates an opportunity to collectively and collaboratively explore these key conceptual models used to understand domestic and family violence.

This workshop series aims to:

- Explore the implications of criminalising coercive control
- Highlight the strategic and covert ways that perpetrators disguise their actions and use the systems to further entrap women
- Work collaboratively as co-ordinated community systems in order to manage perpetrator risk and accountability, and enhance victim/survivor safety
- Challenge explanations or responses that can medicalise or individualise or 'incident-focus' domestic/family violence

This workshop series will extend our theories & practices for domestic and family violence work. We have gathered together leaders in the field who will share their critical thinking & frameworks on coercive control & social entrapment to advance our individual & systems work.

The presenters below will offer workshops. More details can be found in the program via the registration link below.

• JULIA TOLMIE

• HEATHER DOUGLAS

• ROSEMARY O'MALLEY

• KATE FOORD

• MARYCLARE MACHEN

• ROSHAN BHANDARY

• JACQUELINE HOUGH

Criminal Law, Criminal Law and Policy and Women and the Law, The University of Auckland

Prof. of Law, University of Queensland

CEO of the Domestic Violence Prevention Centre

General Manager of Queerspace

Manager of Queerspace's Q Respect program

Family Violence Principal Practitioner, Magistrates' Court of Victoria

Practice Manager of Family Violence, Magistrates' Court of Victoria

DATES: Wednesdays 7th, 14th, 21st & 28th October 2020

ShantiWorks

Equality Peace Justice

TIME: 9.30am to 12.30pm • FEE: $176.00 (GST included) for each workshop

REGISTER AT: <http://shantiworks.com.au/coercivecontrolandsocialentrapment-workshopseries/>