

FREE IN-LANGUAGE EDUCATION SESSIONS

Do you want to know more about the following:

- Understanding healthy and unhealthy relationships?
- Why is gender equality important?

The Multicultural Centre for Women's Health provides free in-language education sessions delivered by trained bilingual health educators. Our educators speak the following languages: Arabic, Assyrian, Cantonese, Croatian, Dari, English, Greek, Hindi, Italian, Karen, Lotuka, Madi, Mandarin, Marathi, Punjabi, Somali, Tamig, Tigre, Tigrigna, and Vietnamese.

For further information, please contact Mursha Dalay-on Gapasin, Getting Equal Project Officer, at (03) 94180919 or mursha@mcwh.com.au.

ABOUT US: Multicultural Centre for Women's Health (MCWH) is a national women's health organisation committed to improving the health and wellbeing of immigrant and refugee women around Australia.

Getting Equal is funded by the Commonwealth Department of Social Services.
